

Charles University Team

Martin Strouhal
Associate Professor at the Faculty of Arts, Charles University, and Head of Department of Education. His professional interests are focused on philosophy of education (normativity and antinomies in education, conceptual relations between philosophy and pedagogy) and teachers training in the field of general pedagogy. His leisure time is divided between his family and music. He performs as a baritone at classical music concerts (baroque music, German Lied and opera arias). Hobbies: classical music, singing, Apple products.

Tereza Komárková

Assistant Professor at the Department of Education, Faculty of Arts, Charles University. She works as a lecturer and researcher in psychological disciplines, special education and counselling. She focuses on issues involving social and educational inequality, social reproduction and mobility, and social stereotypes. She also works as a psychologist and special educator at a pedagogical-psychological counselling centre with children and students with special educational needs. Hobbies: travel, good movies, going to a pub with friends.

Jaroslava Swoboda

I am a PhD. student, lecturer, and educator. In addition to conducting “soft skill” and teacher training courses in informal educational setups, I specialize in designing and coordinating educational programs and professional training in organizations. I am currently researching (and have long been passionate about) the formative influence of theatre and drama in various socio and professional learning environments. I enjoy travelling, exploring, and skiing with my family and friends and the cultural life of my home city Prague. I like potato chips and art in various forms.

Jiří Kropáč

is an Assistant professor at the Faculty of Education, Palacký University Olomouc, Institute of Education and Social Studies. His research field is very wide. He is solving action research implementation into educational preparation of pre-service teachers, cybersecurity and legal threats in cyberspace for teachers, ICT and technology, and professional development of HE staff. Hobbies: poker, food, ICT.
